AUTHOR CELEBRATION TO BE HELD IN CORNWALLIS

As part of LIBRARIES 150: A CELEBRATION, the Joint Nova Scotia Library Association and Library Boards Association of Nova Scotia 2017 Annual Conference to be held at the Annapolis Basin Conference Center in Cornwallis, the public is invited to attend free author readings. The conference will be held September 29 – October 1, and is being hosted by the Annapolis Valley Regional Library.

Cindy Lelliott, Nova Scotia Library Association President, says, “In this year of reflection, celebration and dialogue in Canada, we are pleased to present a conference to inspire original and thought-provoking discussion, encourage innovative ideas and new practices, and celebrate Nova Scotia’s literary and social heritage and culture.”

While anyone is welcome to register for the conference, it is geared to library staff and trustees.

Information on the conference program and registration costs may be found here:

<http://renewyourcuriosity.ca/nsla/>. This year, the public is invited to register for the FREE author events taking place on Friday and Saturday.

On Friday, September 29th listen to author Ami McKay as she reads from her new book and then relax and enjoy the musical group Cuckoo Moon. On Saturday, September 30th, bring a brown-bag lunch for the author readings by Gloria Ann Wesley, Jon Tattrie, Wade White, and Lance Woolaver. Mad Hatter Bookstore will be on-site selling featured books by the authors.

Finally, on Saturday evening, we’ll be showing the movie Maudie on the big screen at the conference centre theatre.

All of these events are free, but you need to pre-register online by September 22, and then pick up your tickets at the registration desk upon arrival. Registration information and times can be found at this website, <http://renewyourcuriosity.ca/celebration/>.
